

Belief hinged on faith alone is no good. Faith is good, but blind faith is not good.

Faith is mental, it is very subjective. But if God exists He/She/It must be something objective, no?

Therefore if one wants to understand whether God exists, he needs an objective process; not some system of belief.

Krishna Consciousness is pratyaksavagamam – understood by direct experience.